Happy Thanksgiving

In a more than difficult year for many, please remember to give thanks. Our Kulp family would like to extend a heartfelt blessing to you and yours during this Thanksgiving season. We are humbled and so appreciative for our valued customers that choose to consider Kulp Roofing & Construction, Inc. for their exterior home improvement project. May you have a joyous Thanksgiving with family, friends, and loved ones.

Why Being a BBB Accredited Business is Important

Did you ever notice the “Triple B” logo on our trucks? We are proud to be an A+ accredited contractor with the Better Business Bureau.

Do ethics in business practice matter? We absolutely believe they do. Is integrity important? We live by it. Our customers are the most important thing to us and how we serve them is paramount. Being rated by the BBB ensures our customers that we are a responsible business with a customer-driven culture. It ensures we operate our business with the principles of fairness and are not some “fly-by-night” company.

This little logo has such a big influence in our industry as it means we support the Better Business Bureau’s mission of ethics, fairness, and integrity. Being backed by the BBB provides a trust factor for our customers and our potential customers as accreditation (especially an A+ rating) isn’t just handed out unwarranted.

The BBB is an admired and respected institution and we are proud to be a member of it.

JUST PLUG IN

Unfortunately, winter weather is just around the corner and with it ice and snow. As the snow and ice begin to thaw, it's important to take measures to prevent ice dams from forming on your roof. Ice dams can cause serious damage to your roof and home, so it's important to be proactive in preventing them.

One of the best ways to prevent ice dams is to install heater cables on your roof. Heater cables are designed to melt through the snow and ice, which prevents it from accumulating on your roof. This can help you avoid costly repairs down the road.

In addition to preventing damage, heater cables can also help improve the efficiency of your home's heating system. When snow and ice build up on your roof, it can block heat from escaping, which can lead to higher energy bills. By installing heater cables, you can help ensure that heat is able to escape, which can save you money in the long run.

Just plug in your heater cables when the weather starts to turn cold and you can make sure your roof stays clear of ice dams. You don't have to worry about dangerous roof clearings which can damage gutters and shingles. And, if you have electric power, you can still use your heater even if the gas is out.

Roof Inspections for Winter

From a foot or more of snow dropping from the sky overnight or high winds that tear through the town, your home's first line of defense against storms and extreme weather is your roof. Placing blind faith in your roof and neglecting it until the first sign of a leak is not smart as there could be much larger problems at hand already including structural issues, mold growth, or damaged insulation to name a few.

After a hailstorm or any other significant weather storm, most homeowners recognize the need for a thorough roof inspection to determine whether their roof suffered damage, but this shouldn't be the only time you consider your roof's health.

Having your roof inspected before the winter weather arrives is always in your best interest. Sitting snow on your roof can not only lead to leaks, but major structural damage when the roof is not up to par to handle it. With a proper inspection, Kulp Roofing & Construction's team of experts can identify any problem factors to spare you a headache down the road. Give us a call today for your roof inspection.

Be the First in Spring.

As the days grow shorter and the cold weather gets closer, remember we can still provide roofing estimates.

Most people seem to think roofs can't be completed in the winter. This isn't true as long as mother nature keeps temperature above freezing and none of that white stuff is falling. We can typically complete the project in a day depending on size.

Although if you prefer to have your roof completed in the spring, an approved estimate and deposit secures you'll be on our schedule once the winter weather breaks.

Give us a call today at any of our locations and we can get you set up with an estimate.
